Summary

Hey there! I'm Armaan, currently navigating my way through Computer Engineering at the University of Waterloo. I just wrapped up an internship at Shopify in Fall 2025 AND am currently doing another internship there in Summer 2026 ! I've always been super passionate about three things: tech, football, and content creation. Tech, because there's something genuinely thrilling about solving real-world problems through innovation. Football—because it's taught me that discipline, teamwork, and persistence pay off (and also because nothing beats matchday excitement). Content creation gives me a space to share these passions with the world, whether it's through my YouTube channel, podcasts, or just fun Instagram reels. One thing I've learned along the way is that execution and consistency always win out over ideas alone. Great ideas are awesome—but the magic truly happens when you put in the daily work. Always happy to chat about anything related to football, the latest tech trends, student life at Waterloo, or even exchange content ideas! Feel free to connect!
